- 10.4. Amendments to the constitution shall take effect only once the revised constitution has been approved by staff in the Division of Student Life at the University of Toronto.

MISSION STATEMENT:

To empower future biotechnologists and entrepreneurs by providing a comprehensive understanding of the biotech industry's scientific, technical, and commercial landscapes.

CLUB OBJECTIVES:

- 1. Research Commercialization: Equip members with knowledge on how to transform scientific discoveries into marketable products or services.
- 2. Biotech Industry Insight: Provide a deep dive into the biotech sector, covering the latest scientific advancements, industry trends, and the life cycle of biotech companies from startups to public entities.
- 3. Innovation Incubation: Foster an environment where students can pitch and develop their biotech ideas, potentially leading to real-world applications and startup formation.
- 4. Funding Mechanisms: Explore the various funding avenues for biotech ventures, including venture capital, grants, and partnerships.
- 5. Regulatory Navigation: Understand the complex regulatory environment that biotech products must navigate, including FDA approval processes and international regulations.

POTENTIAL ACTIVITIES:

- 1. Biotech Entrepreneur Speaker Series: Host talks with biotech entrepreneurs, venture capitalists, and industry experts to gain firsthand insights into the challenges and triumphs of biotech ventures.
- 2. Biotech Company Case Studies: Analyze the success stories and hurdles of established biotech companies, understanding key factors that contributed to their market success or failure.

- 3. Startup Workshops: Conduct workshops on biotech business plan development, pitch training, and intellectual property strategies.
- 4. Innovation Challenges: Organize biotech-focused innovation competitions where members can propose solutions to real-world health and environmental challenges.
- 5. Lab-to-Market Workshops: Offer sessions on the practical aspects of biotech product development, such as prototype development, preclinical testing, and clinical trials.
- 6. Industry Field Trips: Arrange visits to biotech companies and research institutes to observe biotech R&D and commercialization in action.
- 7. Networking Events: Create opportunities for members to connect with industry professionals, alumni, and potential investors.
- 8. Collaborative Research Projects: Partner with university labs to give members hands-on experience in biotech research.
- 9. Regulatory Strategy Seminars: Invite regulatory affairs professionals to discuss the pathway of getting a biotech product approved.
- 10. Biotech Job Fair: Host an annual event connecting members with internship and job opportunities in the biotech industry.

By focusing on these biotech-centric goals and activities, the club would not only prepare its members for successful careers in the biotech field but also potentially contribute to the genesis of future biotech innovations.
