1.3 The purpose, objectives, mission and/or mandate of the organization is to:

Our club exists to cultivate a vibrant and inclusive community where creativity, curiosity, and passion for model building can flourish. We believe that hobbies like model building are more than just pastimes—they are opportunities to learn, create, and connect with others who share the same enthusiasm. By bringing together students who are already experienced in the craft as well as those eager to explore it for the first time, we turn what can often be a solitary hobby into a shared journey of discovery and enjoyment.

Our mission is to make model building accessible to everyone. We provide guidance, resources, and mentorship so that beginners can start confidently, learning step by step without worrying about the tools, techniques, or materials. For experienced modelers, the club offers a space to refine skills, collaborate on projects, and inspire others with their creativity. Through regular weekly sessions, creative group projects, social outings, and events, we offer students a chance to take a break from academic pressures, relax, and enjoy the satisfaction of building something with their own hands.

Beyond the hobby itself, our club fosters leadership, teamwork, and personal growth. Executive roles within the club offer members practical experience in organization, finance, social media, event planning, and administration—skills that extend far beyond the hobby and enrich their overall student life.

Ultimately, our mandate is to create more than just a club—it is to build a community. A place where students feel supported, inspired, and connected through their shared love of model building. We aim to empower every member to explore their creativity, pursue their interests, and share their passion, ensuring that no one feels alone in this niche hobby. Together, we turn curiosity into creativity, interest into action, and individual hobbies into a thriving, collaborative community that enriches student life.
